POLICY PROVISIONS:

INTRODUCTION

Copley Hospital Laboratory is a service department using measurable data as a specific product, which is then used by a physician for diagnostic and treatment decisions.

It is our goal objective to disseminate this information in the shortest time feasible. This information should be up to date in terms of offering the most useful and reliable diagnostic procedures and ensuring optimal accuracy and precision for patients and their physicians.

This can be accomplished through readily available equipment that provides technology or automation to improve rate of processing for the final disposition of results.
